

Release Date: FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE (February 22, 2021)

CareerCurve Acquires Chicago Based High Potential

Cleveland, Ohio - CareerCurve announces the acquisition of privately held High Potential Inc., a leading provider of career transition services based out of Chicago, Illinois. Today's announcement marks the fourth acquisition that CareerCurve has made over the past few years. CareerCurve, headquartered in Cleveland, Ohio, delivers results-based versus time-limited career transition and development coaching services. They differentiate themselves with their innovative business model which delivers full services until each individual successfully finds a new position, or the candidate's desired result is achieved. CareerCurve's approach delivers individually customized support and guidance through personalized 1-on-1 coaching for the full duration of every job search.

High Potential has established an excellent reputation in the business community as a career transition and executive coaching firm with exceptional professionalism and integrity. They serve a prestigious client base representing a wide variety of industry segments.

CareerCurve and High Potential are excited to partner together in leveraging best-in-class outplacement experience to deliver the much needed and critical services to those being impacted by job loss. High Potential's President Mike Farrell brings over 20 years of expertise managing the transitions of organizational talent. Mike shares, "We are excited about joining forces with CareerCurve. They are a team of professionals, having the ability to enhance and expand our existing personalized outplacement and executive coaching services. We pursued this partnership with CareerCurve because we had an appreciation for their mission, values and brand and wanted to ensure long-term sustainability and service enhancements for HPI's valued customers and clients."

"We are pleased to complete this acquisition in Chicago which further extends CareerCurve's strategic market coverage, as well as gaining additional top industry talent who will be joining the CareerCurve team." Said Scott DePerro, Chairman.

Patricia Wagoner, Chief Executive Officer, CareerCurve, shares "This is an exciting partnership opportunity for CareerCurve. We are fortunate to extend our business platform with an organization that complements CareerCurve's service offerings so well. In addition, Mike Farrell shares our vision, mission, and values. CareerCurve continues to invest in our organization's ability to develop and deliver meaningful career transitions services and development coaching to our clients, their communities, and the individuals we serve and support."

About CareerCurve

CareerCurve, LLC is a Talent Solutions organization with global service capabilities, providing results-based versus time-limited programs in two key areas: career transition/outplacement and development coaching. CareerCurve takes a partnered approach where solutions are executed within strong project management and a key account framework. To learn more, please visit www.careercurve.com.

Contact information:

Diana Snider

dsnider@careercurve.com